ATR VERDICT: PRINCE IMPERIAL continues to go from strength to strength and a mark of 122 on his return to handicap company may prove lenient, having won three of his four starts since joining the Olly Murphy yard. A taking winner of a three-runner contest at Plumpton last time, Hecouldbetheone looks fairly treated off 1lb higher, while Ballybegg returned to form with a narrow defeat over an extended 2m5f at Ludlow most recently.

ATR VERDICT: From an official rating of 80, CLOTH OF GOLD sets a reasonable standard and can atone for a disappointing effort on his most recent start. Given that was his first try over 1m2f, the Charlie Johnston-trained colt could make his experience count in this very winnable event. Papa Mango was a respectable second over a mile on his debut in a Southwell maiden last month and should figure if the additional yardage/switching to turf don't cause any issues. Spinning Wheel and Mafting are interesting newcomers to monitor in the betting market.

ATR VERDICT: Hara Kiri completed his hat-trick at Leicester in December and given his versatility regarding ground, he merits the utmost respect ahead of his return from a break. However, preference is afforded to AILT AN CHORRAIN, who made it two from four over hurdles when on target in a novice at Newcastle last month. His current mark of 112 looks well within range and should conditions quicken, he will not need to prove himself. Savant Du Mesnil completes the shortlist.

ATR VERDICT: Having found only a higher-rated rival too strong in a maiden at Southwell last month, BOWEN ISLAND makes plenty of appeal reverting to handicap company. A reproduction of that performance on turf should make Kevin Ryan's gelding tough to beat and a breakthrough victory could be on the cards. The biggest threat may emerge from Hyperchromatic, who is entitled to build on his recent fifth-placed reappearance at Newbury, ahead of the fellow downgraded opponent Hot Property.

ATR VERDICT: LADY IN THE PARK appeared to find an extended 2m3f distance on the sharp side when finishing fourth over hurdles at Wetherby in February. Lucinda Russell's mare makes plenty of appeal reverting to chasing in first-time blinkers and a first victory over fences could be on the cards. Peter & Michael Bowen-trained runners always warrant respect at this venue and their representative Siberian Star is feared most, ahead of Pitwood Road.

ATR VERDICT: Supremely West finished midfield in a stronger event at Haydock in February and should go well, but the forecast good ground may be against him. With that in mind, IKARAK gets the nod. Olly Murphy's gelding finished a fair fifth at Chepstow last time and it would be no surprise to see him take advantage of an unchanged mark. Captain Morgs is another to keep an eye on.

ATR VERDICT: Cork runner-up SUP OF RED can go one better for trainer Jack Davison. Making her debut at the Munster track, the daughter of Supremacy was held up towards the rear before running on late to claim minor honours. With the benefit of that experience, the filly should be much sharper here. As a middle to high draw is usually favoured on the sprint track here, she has much to recommend her. Curragh third Noodles should also be all the better for that initial outing. Running green in the early part of that contest, he kept on nicely once the penny dropped. Joyful Tidings and Sovereign Thought are two debutants to keep a close eye on in the market.

ATR VERDICT: With an official rating of 84, the Jessica Harrington-trained PASSING PHASE sets a fair standard. Third on his reappearance at the Curragh last month, the gelding had finished runner-up on two occasions last season. One of the more experienced runners in this race, he should be able to make the most of what looks a nice opportunity. Cork third Viamonte could arguably have done with a higher draw but if his young rider is able to bag the far rail, a big run would come as no surprise. The four-year-old is a strong traveller who should be suited to this sharp track. Jockey bookings suggest Lil' Angel is the pick of the two Ger Lyons trained representatives.
